

DEMON SHAKERS

Demons assume many forms. Many demons masquerade as salt and pepper shakers.

Demons like to work in pairs. They slip easily into the paired nature of salt and pepper shakers.

Their disguise allows them close and regular contact with the humans beings they will exploit.

Their salt is the kind that gets rubbed in wounds. It is mined in misery, and ground in pain.

Their pepper is spiked with venom.
It fuels unprovoked rage, and fans
the flames of resentment.

When unobserved, they can change
their form and commit atrocious acts. They are capable of murder.

Regal and proud on their own worlds, they disguise themselves as common and unnoticable on ours.

In kitchen cupboards they make their plans for harming those that use them.
